The recognition of the great truth that had come into her life left her a little breathless and shaken. But she did not seek to evade or deny it. The absolute candour of her mind—could it even to itself—accepted the truth quite simply and frankly. No false shame that she had, as far as actual fact went, given her love unasked, tempted her to disguise from herself the reality of what had happened. For good or ill, whether Blaise returned her love or no, it was his.

But in her inmost heart she believed that he, too, cared—half-fearfully, half-joyfully recognizing the peering face which surged behind the bars of his deliberate aloofness.

True, he had never definitely spoken of his love in so many words, but Lady Anne had supplied the key to his silence. The past still bound him. "Aliva, Neta" had held him by her beauty; and dead, she still held him with the cords of remorse and unavailing self-reproach—cords which could bind almost as closely as the strands of love.

But for that—
The hot colour surged into Jean's cheeks at the sweet, secret thought which lay behind that "but." Blaise cared! Cared for her, needed her, just as she cared for and needed him. To her woman's eyes, newly anointed with life's sacramental oil and given sight, it had become suddenly evident in a hundred ways, most of all evident in his sudden effort to conceal it from her.

So much that he had said, or had not said—those clipped sentences, bitten off short with a savage intensity, which had often made her feel bewildered, now found their right interpretation. He cared . . . but the bondage of the past still held.

And with that thought came reaction. The brief, quivering ecstasy, which had sent the fugitive thrills and currents racing through the nerve of her, died suddenly like a damped-out fire, as she realized all which that bondage implied.

It was possible he might never break the silence which he himself had decreed. From the very beginning she had recognized—and insisted upon—the fact that they two were only "ships that pass," and though now, for a little space, Fate had directed the course of each into the same channel, they were to float on their own again to the big ocean of life where vessels signalled—and passed—each other. She must, in the ordinary course of events, return eventually to Beirfene, while Blaise remained in England. And that would be the end of it.

She knew the man's dogged pertinacity; he would hold to an idea or belief immovably if he conceived it right, no matter what the temptation to break away. And in the flood of light vouchsafed by Lady Anne's disclosure, she felt convinced that he had somehow come to regard the tragic happenings of the past as standing between him and any future happiness. Why, Jean could not altogether fathom, but she guessed that the dominant factor in the matter was probably an exaggerated consciousness of responsibility for his wife's death, and perhaps, too, a certain lingering tenderness, a subconscious feeling of loyalty to the dead woman which urged him on to sacrifice his own personal happiness as some kind of atonement.

Unless—and a swift spasm of pain shot through her, searing its way like a tongue of flame—unless Lady Anne had been altogether mistaken in her fixed belief that Blaise had not really cared for his wife but had only been carried away on the swift tide of passion—that tide which runs so fiercely and untrammelled in hot youth.

Jean had her black hour then, when she faced the fact that although her love was given, and although she tremulously believed it was returned, she would probably never know the supreme joy of utter certainty, never hear the beloved's voice utter those words which hold all heaven for the woman who hears them.

But, through the darkness that closed about her, there gleamed a single thread of light—the light of her own bestowal of love. Even if she never knew, of a surety, that Blaise cared, even if—and here she shrank, but forced herself to face the possibility sincerely—even if she was utterly mistaken and he did not care for her in any other way save as a friend—his "little comrade"—still still there would remain always the golden gleam of love that has been given. For no one who loves can be quite unhappy.

CHAPTER XVII.

In the Rose Garden

The chaldean of the syring skies had deepened into the glowing sapphire of early June—a deep, pulsating blue, tremulous with heat. On the sundial, the shadow's finger pointed to twelve o'clock, and the sleepy hush of noontide hung over the rose-garden where Jean was gathering roses for the house.

"Can't I help?"
Burke's voice broke across the drowsy quiet so unexpectedly that she jumped, almost letting fall the scissors with which she was scientifically snipping the stems of the roses. She bestowed a small frown upon the head and shoulders appearing above the wooden gate on which he leaned.

"It's not very helpful to begin by giving one an electric shock," she complained. "How long have you been there?"

His attitude had a repose about it which suggested that he might have been standing there some time watching her.

"I don't know. But as I am here, may I cut?"
Without waiting for her answer, he unlatched the gate and came striding across the velvet greenness of the lawn.

Since the day when she had lunched at Willow Ferry, and learned, as she believed, to understand and make allowances for the bitterness which had so warped Judith's nature, her acquaintance with both brother and sister ripened rapidly into a friendly intimacy. But the fact that Burke's feelings towards her was something other, and much warmer than mere friendship, had failed to penetrate her consciousness.

It was patent enough to the lookers-on, and probably Jean was the only one amongst the little circle of intimate friends who had not realized what was impending.

It is not very often that a woman remains entirely oblivious of the small, unmistakable signs which go to indicate a man's attitude towards her. In Jean's case, however, her thoughts were so engrossed with the one man that, at the moment, all other men occupied but a very shadowy relationship towards the realities of life as far as she was concerned.

So that she scarcely troubled to look up as Burke halted beside her, but went on cutting her roses unconcernedly, merely observing:

"Idlers not allowed. You can make yourself useful by paring the thorns off the stems." She gestured towards a basket which stood on the ground at her side, already overflowing with its scented burden of pink and white and crimson roses.

He glanced at the russet head bent studiously above a bush rose, and there was a gleam, half angry, half amused, in his eyes. His fingers went uncertainly to his pocket, where reposed a serviceable knife, then suddenly he drew his hand sharply away, empty.

"No," he said. "I didn't come over to be useful this morning. I came over"—he spoke suddenly, as though endeavoring to gain her attention—"on quite different errand."

There was a vision in his eyes which might have warned her in his voice that he was not so much interested in her as she had been led to believe by her task of wrestling with a refractory branch. As it was, she merely questioned absently.

"And what was the 'quite different errand'?"

The next moment she felt his hand close over both hers, gardening scissors and washcloth gloves notwithstanding.

"Stop cutting those confounded flowers, and I'll tell you," he said roughly.

She looked up in astonishment, and, at last, a glimmering of what was coming dawned upon her. Even the blindest of women, the most preoccupied, must have read the expression of his eyes at that moment.

"Oh, no—no," she began hastily. "I must finish cutting the roses—really, Geoffrey."

She tried to release her hands, but he held them firmly.

"No," he said coolly. "You must finish cutting your flowers—at least, not now. You're going to listen to me."

He drew the scissors from her grasp, and they flashed like a fish in the sunshine as he tossed them down on to the rose basket. The quiet, deliberately, he pulled off the loose gloves she was wearing and his big hands gripped themselves suddenly, closely, about her slight, bared ones.

"Geoffrey—"

Unemployment Insurance

Premier Bracken Of Manitoba Favors Contributing Scheme For Canada

Immediate steps to work out a contributory unemployment insurance scheme for Canada are suggested by Premier John Bracken in his budget speech delivered as provincial treasurer in the Manitoba Legislature.

The problem of unemployment relief, he stated, has posed a serious drain on the revenues of both provincial governments and municipalities. Present arrangements, he declared, are not altogether satisfactory.

"The municipalities and provinces of western Canada, with their limited resources," he said, "ought not to be shouldered with the major cost of this relief in the form of unemployment insurance."

"If no other policy is acceptable to the Dominion, we consider that steps should be taken immediately to work out a contributory unemployment insurance scheme on a national basis under federal auspices, the cost to be placed upon the industry, the state and those who are in employment."

"As to the cost of relief, if the Dominion will not assume the whole cost, the province will continue to share any necessary part that the Dominion requires in its general policies. The money, however, should be raised by the Dominion, since the Dominion can borrow it at lower rates of interest than the province and there is no reason why this saving should not be passed on to the provinces and the municipalities."

Improved Business Outlook

Favorable Signs Are Noted By Bureau Of Statistics

A statement issued by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics declares that a more confident attitude regarding the future of business was in evidence during the latter part of February owing to reassuring financial developments. These included the gain of $3,200,000 in notice deposits on January 31.

The gain in high grade bond prices was the most constructive development, added significance accruing in view of the pronounced decline in short-term interest rates in the chief external money markets.

The decline in bond yields and interest rates is a clear indication of an improved credit situation, a prerequisite of business recovery.

Industrial operations showed moderate improvement. The output of pig iron and steel was greater. Production of autos revealed a gain. Imports of crude rubber also gained. Exports of planks and boats increased but the output of newspaper reported seasonal activities. Exports of nickel were 4,361,000 compared to 3,145,000 in January. The railway freight movement showed February loadings of 174,100 cars compared to 165,838 in January.

The Chinese "Tommy"

Good Leader and Prompt Pay All He Asks

Clearly also Japan has underestimated the morale of the Chinese troops. The stubborn resistance they have put up may astonish those who have heard of China's comic opera civil wars. They cause no surprise, however to foreigners who know something of the dogged endurance of the Chinese soldier. One rather marvelous how it is Japan, not such little reckoning upon it. Provided he is well led, and that his pittance is duly paid up-to-date the Chinese soldier will keep smiling in the face of Hell. In the present instance, it is clear he is being well led, though one would like to know whether the credit is more due to his German or Russian officers. For the rest a Chinese army is perhaps the only one in the world which does not fight on its stomach. Given a half-pint glass of boiled beans and a pellet or two of opium, the Chinese soldier is independent of any commissariat for a stretch of at least 48 hours.—Ottawa Journal.

HE COULDN'T READ FOR INDIGESTION

"For some years previous to 1922 I was unable to read, with heads and thousands of stars appearing in my eyes, which prevented me from reading. I decided to try Kruschen's. That was August, 1922, and I have been able to read ever since."

Now let it be said quite definitely, that what Kruschen did for him, it will do for everybody who suffers from indigestion as he did. The fact is that "the little daily dose" without any dieting, and then comes complete, regular, and unflinching elimination of all waste matter every day.

Soon after you start on Kruschen you will begin to feel the benefit. You will find to your satisfaction that you are able to enjoy your food without any distressing after-effects. And, as you persevere, you will see that the relief which Kruschen brings is lasting relief.

While his health continues unimpaired by the mind alert, he will be valuable to his business or profession. A man who enters any business or profession, although possessed of the advantages of the best education obtainable, cannot be compared with the veterans he finds about him, providing, of course, their mental capacities are the same. But as the years go by and he learns from the happenings of every day, he becomes more efficient.

Free Trial Offer
If you have never tried Kruschen—try it now at our expense. We have distributed a great quantity of Kruschen's. It is free for you to try it for 10 days. If you like it, we will send you a box of Kruschen's. If you do not like it, we will refund your money.

Word of their plight reached the ears of some of their fellow Scots of the Presbyterian Church at Dalmeny, near Edinburgh, and although they, too, were a poor congregation, they raised thirteen pounds—about $65—when they raised the money. This gave the exiles encouragement to go ahead, and they raised some $1,750 to complete the building.

Returned With Interest
Edinburgh Church Repaid For Gift Made 208 Years Ago

In the year 1724—just 208 years ago—New York was just a little place, and the early settlers were struggling to establish their churches. The Presbyterians were, of course, among the first to contrive to build their own Kirk, but they had a hard struggle to finance it.

Word of their plight reached the ears of some of their fellow Scots of the Presbyterian Church at Dalmeny, near Edinburgh, and although they, too, were a poor congregation, they raised thirteen pounds—about $65—when they raised the money. This gave the exiles encouragement to go ahead, and they raised some $1,750 to complete the building.

Recently the aid Kirk at Dalmeny needed money. Some of the members of the new great and wealthy First Presbyterian Church on Fifth Avenue got to know of it, and bearing in mind the history of the pioneer Presbyterian Church in New York, a group of members chipped in and sent over a substantial contribution to the little Scottish church and set it on its feet again.

Truly, the Biblical injunction to "Cast thy bread upon the waters" has been fulfilled.—St. Thomas Times-Journal.

The worms that infest children from their birth are of two kinds, those that find lodgment in the walls of the intestines and those that are found in the intestines. The latter are the most destructive, as they cling to the walls of the intestines and do not interfere with work havoc there. Miller's Worm Powders dislodge both kinds and expel them from the system, thus repairing the damage they have caused.

ACID STOMACH

Great Britain Sacrificed Much In Effort To Help Rehabilitation

Only now is the civilized world in a position to understand the magnitude of the sacrifice made without ostentation by Great Britain in its heroic and generous effort to assist in the rehabilitation of Europe. Although it was known in a general way that more had been done with that object than had been commonly supposed, it remained for Right Hon. Neville Chamberlain, Chancellor of the Exchequer, to reveal the exact figures. He did it the other day in the House of Commons.

The actual reductions made by Great Britain from the amounts disbursed by her on behalf of the various countries concerned were found to be:

France, 62 per cent; Italy, 86 per cent; Rumania, 63 1/2 per cent; Portugal, 65 per cent; Greece, 68 1/2 per cent; and Yugoslavia, 67 1/2 per cent.

As the Montreal Star observed: "These are astounding figures. No wonder the Briton is bearing the heaviest burden of taxation in the world, when he can cut his debtors' accounts in this fashion."

Skilled Veterans Valuable

Retirement Of Experienced Workers While Still Efficient Is a Calamity

Dr. Morris Fishbein, editor of the American Medical Journal, advocates the theory that long life and continued work well into old age go hand in hand. Although he is unprepared to deny or uphold the doctor's claim, we feel that there is another angle which might well be emphasized—the extreme usefulness of skilled veterans in all fields of activity.

The waste of experienced and useful minds by retirement must be enormous. A man who enters any business or profession, although possessed of the advantages of the best education obtainable, cannot be compared with the veterans he finds about him, providing, of course, their mental capacities are the same. But as the years go by and he learns from the happenings of every day, he becomes more efficient.

Aviators Have Adventures

Record Of Royal Air Force Makes Fascinating Reading

For an hour during a recent meeting of the British House of Commons was illumined with the romance of high adventure. Sir Philip Sassoon, Under-Secretary for Air, introduced the air estimates and they were no mere recital of votes and figures of aircraft. One saw the Royal Air Force opening up new routes, leading a helping hand in the world's desolate places.

A lost touring car of the Egyptian State Railway was discovered in the sand wastes of the Libyan desert. A friendly hand was given to a district commissioner in the collection of taxes from unwilling semi-nomadic tribes. A case of appendicitis was conveyed 500 miles across the desert from Dardara to Khartoum. Water and supplies were taken to an African trade expedition stranded north of Wadi Halfa with only a small bottle of water between its members.

A political agent on a tour of the Northwest frontier provinces of India—"back of beyond"—received his mail. An Italian aircraft force landed on the Somali coast was located and supplied with provisions. Sick members of an expedition operating in the hinterland of Aden were evacuated by air. And the Sultan's brother was conveyed from Ras-Ai-Kalmah to Bahrain by eye trouble.

GULL LAKE SETS JULY

20th ANNUAL REGATTA DATES
Having been awarded the Ladies' and Men's One Mile Title Swim for the Wrigley Cup Competition, the regatta will be held on July 20th, as the date of their Annual Championship Regatta.

It will be remembered that the Gull Lake Club held the First Annual Wrigley Cup for the Ladies' and Men's One Mile Title Swim for the 20th last year and about ten thousand people attended to witness these two main events, and the Canoe and Outboard Motorboat Championships, were on the same date. This year, the programme will be slightly altered and improved. In place of the Men's 200 yard, outdoor swimming championship and the Ladies' 100 yard swimming championship races, a diving exhibition and exhibition of life saving has been substituted. The entire programme of canoe events has been retained. This includes, Men's and Women's championships in singles, doubles and fours. Mixed doubles and mixed fours and a full list of Canoe novelty events. The speed boat races have also been retained, but will be placed as a windup for the programme, instead of listed as separate heats throughout the programme. This move will be appreciated by all, as in the past the motorboats caused no end of interference to the swimming and canoeing contenders as well as the announcers. Another innovation this year, will be loud speakers placed at strategic points to inform the spectators of the progress of the races. All contestants will be numbered so that those in attendance will be able to follow the entrants in the various events.

The pier also will be reserved for officials only, and arrangements will be made that more people will be able to see the start and progress of the race without difficulty.

Entries for this meet will close on July 1st, and no entry will be accepted after that date.

Barney Halpin, will be back on the job as secretary and guarantees the success of the meet, given as perfect a day as last year. Another of those big and better sporting events will be presented.

EASY MONEY ARTISTS

It takes the people a long time to get wise to the tricks of the sharpers, and every day some of our people are getting stung. A week ago a smart young man drifted into Lacombe with a real good line, and succeeded in separating several of our young men from their watches and a quantity of cash. His scheme was to sell the victim a nice new watch and take in their old watch and some cash as first payment. He was to send the new watch along in a day or two. The victims are out their watches and money and the police are looking for the artist.

We understand that at the present time a gang is at work in our district selling clothes. They take a down payment, and will send along the clothes later. We would advise anyone approached by these men to ask to see their credentials, and then look up the bona-fides of the firm they say they represent. In this way our citizens may save some hard earned cash.

The moral is—Deal at home with your home merchant. He will give you better value for your money than any peddler can hope to—and you are sure to get the goods paid for. Your home merchant has a place of business where you can always find him, while the peddler is likely to be here today and over in the United States tomorrow, giving you the merry hal hal!!

AT THE AVALON

YOUTH—impulsive, high strung, daring, groping its unconscious way through frivolous flirtations, risqué romances, seeking for itself the secret of life, the recipe for true happiness, and then not recognizing it until it has again almost slipped away.

Such is the theme of "BAD GIRL," the Fox Film version of Vina Delmar's sensational novel, the story that has been read by millions, which opens at this theatre tonight.

Sally Eilers selected from the pick of Hollywood stars, plays "Dot," the BAD GIRL, and James Dunn, already declared the most important male discovery since Charles Farrell, "Edie," her boy friend, Frank Borzage directed.

and Thomas Meighan in "Skyline," April 21, 22, and 23.

TWO PROVINCES

TO REDUCE MEMBERSHIP

A strenuous battle is being waged in the Saskatchewan legislature over the redistribution bill which proposes to reduce the number of constituencies from 65 to 52. The latest report is that only ten seats instead of eleven will be topped off. The British Columbia Government is also having considerable trouble piloting its redistribution measure through the house, and the usual cries of gerrymandering are heard in other provinces.

Naturally, there will be a loud outcry from the constituencies marked out for disappearance. This is one of the unavoidable results of any genuine effort to reduce membership, and both governments will have to face this and other attacks. They are seeking to meet public opinion at least part way in the insistent demand that the cost of government in these western provinces must be pared at every possible turn. Just why Alberta should continue to pay $1800 a year to 68 members when the larger province of Saskatchewan intends to get along with 53 is something the Brownlee Government will have to explain at a later date.

A NICE LOT OF HORSES

J. Gordon has a carload of well broken young horses at the Alberta Barn on Glass St. This is the best lot of horses Mr. Gordon has brought in and will be sold privately. Come in and look them over.

LIFE insurance benefits.... can be Proved while you are still ALIVE!

LIVING policyholders of the Sun Life were paid in benefits during 1931 $68,000,000—THREE TIMES as much as beneficiaries of deceased policyholders.

This was due, partly, to the fact that trained Sun Life representatives, when selling insurance, counsel their policyholders how to secure a dual advantage—the maximum benefit to THEMSELVES, and the greatest protection to their DEPENDANTS.

Oxford and Cambridge Skiers Hold First Meeting on British Soil

History was written in Canadian and Empire ski annals at St. Marguerite, Que., over the end of 1931 and the beginning of 1932 when the ski teams of the Universities of Oxford and Cambridge held their Inter-Varsity meet on British soil for the first time. Hitherto the famous British Universities have always settled their winter sports differences in Switzerland, the recent visit to Canada having been made in the light of the "Buy British" campaign, and for the encouragement of University Sports between different parts of the Empire. They also met

Canadian college teams, were entertained at Ottawa by His Excellency the Governor-General, and made the acquaintance of a number of Canadian Ski Clubs. The pictures show (Dark Sweaters) the Oxford team (Light Sweaters) Cambridge, who won the British Inter-Varsity meet; and (in group) taken immediately after the Oxford-Cambridge cross country race. Left to Right: Alexander Keller, President of the Ski Club of Great Britain and Honorary Manager of the teams, timekeeper; W. (Bill) Thompson, Montreal, former Canadian Olympic skier, starter; F. J. Be Careful.

The season is close at hand when once again the roads and highways of the country will witness the passing to and fro, in numbers almost beyond counting, of automobiles, trucks, buses, vans, motor propelled vehicles of all descriptions. Farmers enroute to their marketing centres, city and town people bound for their summer cottages or other resorts, tourists from far and near, commercial travellers and others engaged on business, freight and express cars moving in all directions, will be claiming right-of-way upon rural roads, city streets and provincial highways.

Past years have recorded an ever mounting toll of accidents resulting from all this modern, high powered highway traffic. The lists of killed, maimed for life, seriously and less seriously injured, the money loss in damaged property, have been appalling.

The question is: What is to be the record for this year? Is this costly toll to go higher still, or are we as a civilized people going to come to our senses, and in this year bring about a lessening of these losses?

The following figures have been compiled across the international boundary line. They apply only to the United States, but, while conditions may be somewhat better in Canada, because our population is smaller and our traffic less congested, much the same situation prevails. There is, therefore, a lesson and a warning in these figures for the people of this Dominion. Reference has been made in this column on more than one occasion previously to this subject, but no apology is offered for again directing attention to it at this time because of its importance and in the hope that thereby at least some drivers of motor cars will exercise more caution.

Every year from 1917 through 1931 deaths from automobile accidents have steadily increased. Last year 34,406 people were killed in automotive accidents. Nearly a million others, 997,400 were injured. Losses for a period of eighteen months ended December 31, 1931, exceeded even the United States sacrifices of the World War.

The money cost, also, is prodigious. The Travellers Insurance Company reckons the annual loss at $2,500,000,000.

This is a staggering sum. It is larger than the entire cost of public education in the United States. It is far greater than the entire cost, exclusive of war debts, of the Federal Government. Examination of the circumstances surrounding these accidents shows clearly that they were avoidable. Here are some of the salient facts:

More than 90 per cent. of the motor vehicles involved in personal-injury accidents in 1931 were in good condition. More than 80 per cent. of the accidents occurred in clear weather with dry roads. More than 90 per cent. of the accidents involved drivers of more than one year's experience.

The most hazardous age for driving is under twenty. Women apparently are safer drivers than men. One male driver out of every twenty-one licensed was involved in a personal injury accident. Only one woman out of every eighty-six licensed was involved in an accident.

The outstanding fact is that automobiles are improperly operated. Exceeding the speed limit was the explanation of 67,000 accidents. Drivers on the wrong side of the road accounted for 62,500. Those who did not have the right-of-way accounted for the largest number, 119,330. Cutting in caused 33,540. Failing to signal accounted for 27,740. Driving off the road-way explained 60,630. Plain reckless driving added another 34,830.

Just one conclusion is possible. Heedless, reckless, inconsiderate driving is taking this tragic toll of life and treasure.

The remedy is not, however, to be found in drastic statutes and regulations limiting speed. That experiment has been tried and it proved an utter failure.

What is practicable is the insistence by law and public opinion upon safe driving at all times and at all places. The man or woman who tends to drive in a way dangerous to pedestrians or other motorists should be denied a license, and if they have already received one, it should be withdrawn. Licenses must be taken from drunken drivers, incompetent drivers and reckless drivers.

Respect for the law and voluntary observation of the rules of safe driving are required. Motorists as a class may well organize for safety, and pedestrians should recognize the fact that, on our motor driven streets and highways, they take their lives in their hands when they disregard the regulations and bylaws enacted for their own safety.

The vast majority of cars are dependable today, but, like any piece of machinery, some part may weaken or get out of order. It is, therefore, the duty of the driver to have it checked over thoroughly and frequently. His own life, as well as the lives of others, may depend upon the precaution.

But, in the final analysis, and in an overwhelming majority of cases, it is the driver, not the condition of the car, who is responsible for accidents. It is the human element that counts; that is the vital factor in nearly all the tragedies. Law alone cannot control him, although it may punish him afterwards, providing he is alive to receive punishment. He must control himself.

Level Crossing Accidents

Quebec Man Demonstrates Devise To Overcome Danger

An automatic gate, the inventor of which claims it will prevent accidents at level crossings, was demonstrated to provincial road department officials at Quebec. The inventor is Maurice Hebert. The gate is worked by electric contact, located several hundred feet from the crossing. The moment the forward wheels of the locomotive touch the point of contact, the gate begins to lower slowly, at the same time starting the ring of a bell. The bell continues to ring and the gate remains closed until the last wheel of the rear coach has passed the point of contact.

Live Poultry Shipments

Policy Of Saskatchewan Department Of Agriculture Proves Success

According to Howard Cross, secretary and field service representative of the poultry division, Saskatchewan Department of Agriculture, the new policy introduced into Saskatchewan last year of loading live hens—in July and August—proved quite successful and satisfactory to the farmers. "We loaded at 47 points in the province," he said, "and 15 cars were shipped out containing 55,000 birds. This year we expect to load 20 cars."

Canada Should Advertise

Attractions Should Be Kept Before Tourists From U.S.

The importance of the tourist trade to Canada has recently been mentioned by Premier Bennett and has been the subject of considerable editorial comment through the country, the general purport of which has been that it is a good thing and should be encouraged by all patriotic citizens. The Lethbridge Herald goes a step further and advocates a strong advertising campaign. It suggests that the Canadian Chamber of Commerce is perhaps the best agency to undertake the job of letting our friends across the line know that their money is worth more in Canada, telling them what they can see while here, and giving them information as to what they can take home free of duty.

This advertising might also drop a word or two as to the strength and security of Canadian banks and the advantages they offer over the old sock or clausd tenap as a repository for savings. Encourage the visitors to bring their money with them and leave it behind them when they go. Remind them that there have been nearly 8,000 bank failures in the United States since 1923, and not one in Canada.

Canada has many attractions as the playground of the continent. "I may have even more than Uncle Sam as the strong-box of North America."

MOURNING WARDROBE

A death occurred in our family and I had to go to mourning. I could hardly afford to buy all black clothes, so decided to dye what I had. I consulted with a friend and he advised using Diamond Dyes. Everything came out beautifully: coats, wool dresses, stockings and all. I have since learned to appreciate the excellence of the black Diamond Dyes. They are real money savers—the finest dye money can buy—I truly believe.

Russia Threatened With Seed Shortage

Country Evidently Exported More Wheat Than Harvest Justified

During the past month interesting news has been forthcoming from Russia in connection with the difficult situation that the Soviet authorities are experiencing as a result of poor harvests in some areas last year, suggesting that Russia has exported more wheat than was justified by the crop harvested in 1931. This information was contained in a statement issued by H. Stevens, Minister of Trade and Commerce.

In a cable received by the bureau early in March it was stated that at the end of 1931 there were 130,000 tons of wheat in Russia, of which 70 per cent. required repairs. Up to February 20, only 44.3 per cent. damaged tractors had been reconditioned. A further cable received on March 15, stated that up to March 1, 50 per cent. of the tractors needing repairs had been placed in operating condition.

France Hoarding Gold

Has Now Passed United States in Volume Of Holdings In Bank

The Bank of France has now passed the Federal Reserve Bank of the United States in volume of gold holdings. The figures as at March 1 are as follows:

Bank of France	$2,942,312,800
Federal Reserve	2,938,974,000
(U.S.)	2,938,974,000
Bank of England	590,259,000

The French holdings are the highest in history. It is noteworthy, however, that the United States Treasury also holds large quantities of gold. In total figures of monetary gold holdings, the United States leads France by $1,408,000,000. England also possesses large supplies of private gold reserves not shown in the figures.

Ask Rate Adjustment

Want Fair Rate Basis On Shipments Going To Churchill

Adoption of the distribution or town tariff freight rate basis for Churchill cargoes is sought by the Saskatchewan Board of Trade. Opposition to the Fort William terminal basis for incoming and outgoing shipments by the Hudson Bay route was voiced at the quarterly meeting of the board. The Fort William rate would enforce a rate for distributing centres based on 85 per cent. of the standard mileage in place of a rate fixed on the mileage as an arbitrary deduction of 130 miles no matter the distance from the terminal. The Board of Trade claims that this latter basis is unfair in that it gives a decided advantage to points near the terminus.

Something Wrong Somewhere

Should Be Plenty Of Work For Everybody Unemployed

As long as men and women and children are starving for hunger, over production of food is a myth. As long as millions are going insufficiently clad, over-production of clothing is a myth. As long as everybody is wanting something not to be had, there is plenty of work for everybody unemployed. If we direct activity into the proper channels. We are not as clever as we thought we were, but just as dumb and conceited about it. We must learn to drop our fallacies. This is the business of the rising generation. Hamilton Herald.

Welsh Were Early Settlers

Were Located In Mississippi Valley Before Arrival Of Columbus.

Welshmen may never have heard the legend that some of their ancestors were the first settlers in the great Mississippi Valley long before Christopher Columbus discovered this continent. At the beginning of the 18th century descendants of these early Welsh voyagers were living by the Missouri River and were known as the Mandans or the "White Indians."

This interesting statement was told at St. David's Society of Ottawa at their annual banquet by Col. H. A. Mullins, M.P., Marquette, who spoke on Canada. Col. Mullins' reference to the Mandans arose out of his recollections of David Thompson, geographer and surveyor of Western Canada from Lake Superior to the Pacific and into the far north. Thompson was born of Welsh parents in London in 1770. He was sent to Fort Churchill as an apprentice to the Hudson's Bay Company in 1784 and in succeeding years he travelled over and surveyed most of Western Canada. Col. Mullins declared, "He was in the fur trade and after he retired from that business he made a large map of Western Canada. It was hung in the old council chamber of the North West Fur Company and now it is in the Crown Lands Department in Toronto."

"In 1798 he travelled from what is now Manitoba across to the Missouri River and there visited the Mandans or 'White Indians,'" said Col. Mullins. "They are presumed to have been descended from some Welsh people who attempted to establish a colony at the mouth of the Mississippi in 1170 and were gradually forced northward. They were people with beaver hats and many of them had blue eyes. They lived in fortified towns and were rich and progressive."

Thompson died in poverty at the age of 87. His grave in Mount Royal Cemetery, Montreal, was unmarked for nearly a year, but now a monument stands to his memory. His birthplace stood on the border of England and Wales and he declared he was born in that portion of the house which stood on Welsh soil.

Believe Col. Fawcett Still Lives

British Authorities Inclined To Opinion That Aged Explorer Has Been Located

British and Brazilian authorities who checked the story of a Swiss trapper, Stephan Rattin, that Colonel R. H. Fawcett still alive after his disappearance in the Brazilian jungles seven years ago, have reached opposite conclusions.

General Candido Rondon, the Brazilian army officer who has spent much of his life exploring the mysterious land of inner Brazil, after interviewing the trapper was doubtful if the explorer could be still alive. Other Brazilian army authorities who have often been among Brazilian Indians agreed with him.

But the British consul at Sao Paulo, Arthur Abbott, and Consul-General Charles Goodwin of Rio de Janeiro, are increasingly impressed with Rattin's story that he saw the aged Fawcett 500 miles west of Dead Horse camp, the last outpost of civilization in Brazil, last October. The British authorities have become convinced the trapper knew nothing of Colonel Fawcett until he reached the town of Barretos, in northern Sao Paulo.

Relic Of Fatal Flight

Papers Belonging To Parker D. Cramer Picked Up In North Sea

A bundle of papers belonging to Parker D. Cramer, Detroit aviator who was lost in the north sea last August, was picked up in the north Atlantic by a Dutch trawler and turned over to the United States consulate at Amsterdam, Holland.

The papers included Cramer's flying license, a permit for his flight across the Atlantic, a letter from his mother and a description of his plane.

The trawler, known as N. 130, has just returned from a fishing trip. The master said the papers were picked up a short distance east of the Orkney Islands.

Tinting the Highways

California Would Like Tan Cement For Roads and Pavements

Sun-kist California wants her sun recognized as a sort of trade mark. Down these they want all roads and pavements colored in moderate tones but rather lean to sun tans. They have discovered an apt process which will make the tinting of sidewalks and highways that color without the least additional cost. The city reports that a far western cement manufacturing concern has found a way to produce a tan-toned cement, without the addition of any coloring material, merely by a special heating process. San Francisco also finds the public aware of the desirability of having other colors than the familiar whitish gray of the ordinary cement mixtures in the construction of pavements. So if they can turn a tan cement maybe the chemists will find a means also of turning out a self-coloring blue, green or even pink. The far western cement concern's officers have declared their new tan cement to be the finest real improvement in the basic color of Portland cement introduced in 108 years.—Brandon Sun.

Two men of the same name, age, occupation and church denomination recently died in the same county on the same day and were buried at the same hour, a careful check-up has revealed. The men were not related and did not know each other. They were buried in two different parts of Rutherford County.

Both were named William Thomas Blanton. They died February 5 and were buried the next day. One at Oke Grove and the other at Kistler's chapel, 12 miles apart. Each man was a farmer and a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church. One lived near Ellenboro and the other near Kistler's chapel.

Seeks Damages

Action Commenced On Account Of Death Of Seaman On Submarine "Nautilus"

Suit for $100,000 damages was begun recently against the Trans-Atlantic Submarine Company of Delaware, which financed the expedition toward the North Pole led by Sir Hubert Wilkins.

The action is brought by the administrator of the estate of Willard I. Grimmer, seaman, who was swept from the submarine "Nautilus" by high seas and drowned last March 21. The complaint alleges the life-line was not equipped with secure fastenings and negligence of those in charge of operations led to Grimmer's death.

The tendency to live in over-heated rooms is cited as one reason for Canada's high infant mortality rate, in a statement issued by the Canadian Council for Child and Family Welfare. Resents Importation Of Soviet Timber

May Bar B.C. Lumber From British Market Says London Times

The approximate cost of the huge timber contract completed between British importers and Soviet Russia exporters is placed at $4,500,000 by the Times.

The schedule of prices for the timber, amounting to 460,000 standards and to be delivered this year, provides that if market prices of similar grades of wood from Sweden or Finland falls, appropriate adjustments up to a limit of 52 per standard may be made in the schedule of Russian prices.

The contract is said to provide for the purchase of one-quarter of the entire supply of softwoods needed by Great Britain from Russia, the normal annual import being 1,600,000 standards. The timber trade declares this bulk buying is beneficial in preventing fluctuations in price and "dumping."

In a leading editorial the Times said a disagreeable impression would be produced by the announcement of the contract. "Conditions under which much Russian timber is cut and transported are such that its importation should be prohibited altogether, and there will be natural resentment that a contract on this huge scale has been concluded," the Times said.

"Among other effects it will help to shut British Columbia timber out of the British market."

During the last five years, the Times pointed out, Britain imported $135,000,000 worth of goods from Russia and exported only $25,000,000 worth of goods to that country. Moreover while cash was paid for the British purchases, almost all the goods sold to Russia were on a credit basis, the sum of money being accumulated in Russia being used by the Soviet to buy equipment for its five-year-plan from Germany and the United States, and to finance subversive agitation in Great Britain, India, China and elsewhere."

Increased Population For Canada Will Be Necessary Soon To Help Liquidate National Obligations

To those who think superficially, it may seem out of place, in the presence of considerable unemployment throughout the Dominion, to talk of plans for increasing the population of the country by means of selected immigration. Nothing is clearer, however, than the fact that Canada, with its immense area and vast vacant spaces, cannot hope to pay its way or to carry its immense established overhead without more shoulders upon which to place the burden. The Dominion has a financial, industrial and railway plan which equips it to care for twenty or twenty-five million people, instead of only ten million as at present.

If we could secure additional population by gradual means and establish it on a sound economic basis, our national troubles would disappear. A public debt of $2,300,000,000, a huge railway debt and the existing load of provincial and municipal debts would no longer be beyond our capacity. With several million people we could pay the interest easily and gradually liquidate the principal. The railways would have more people and goods to carry; their deficits would be turned into surpluses, and our industries would have larger domestic markets for their products. Our paper and pulp mill establishments would no longer be too large for the country. It is quite clear that Canada's greatest need is more people for its vacant spaces, more farmers to till its unoccupied lands, more producers and more consumers of its kinds.

The inauguration of an adequate immigration policy must, of course, await the return of normal world conditions, so that there will be adequate markets abroad for our products, and particularly for the primary products of farm, land, forest and fishery. If the Imperial Conference, to be held at Ottawa next July, proves the success that is anticipated its decisions will in time go far to supply the need. In any case, it was glad to note that, in the words of Rt. Hon. J. H. Thomas, Secretary of State for the Dominions in the British Parliament, the question of intra-empire migration is to form one of the important subjects of discussion at Ottawa.

There is reason for satisfaction that the Canadian Government takes the same view, for, as Hon. W. A. Gordon, Acting Minister of Immigration, said at Ottawa recently, "Whether we like it or not, we must get over the positive side of immigration because we must have more people if we hope to pay off a debt with which ten million people are loaded at present by reason of the railway problem on our hands. Another important consideration is the need of bringing in more British people of the right kind to strengthen and stabilize the Anglo-Saxon elements in our population and to buttress the British sentiments of the country."—Toronto Mail and Empire.

The Field Force Counts

Attention is called To An Important Phase Of Honey Production. C. B. Gooderham, Dominion Apiarist for the Department of Agriculture at Ottawa, calls attention to an important phase of honey production in the following statement: "The amount of honey which a colony can gather is largely dependent upon the number of bees that colony can release for field work during the period of honey flow and upon the ability of the beekeeper to keep this force contentedly working. The total number of bees within the colony is not a reliable index as to its ability to gather honey, because it is only those bees that are above a definite age that are effective as nectar gatherers and it is the number of bees in this force that counts in the production of surplus honey, and furthermore, the strength of this force is dependent upon the care given the colony during the previous eleven months and not upon spring management alone as so many beekeepers fondly hope."

New Diving Apparatus

A deep-sea diving apparatus, which will allow exploration and work at depths of 10,000 feet and more, has been invented in Germany. The contrivance is shaped like an egg and its metal shell is made to resist enormous water pressure by automatically adjusting the interior air pressure through the vaporization of liquid air.

Place Families On Farms

Plan To Move Destitute Residents From Cities To Farms In Saskatchewan

Depending on agreement with the Federal Government, the provincial government, in conjunction with the three larger cities, in Saskatchewan, will place 1,200 families on farms in northern Saskatchewan, and there is the possibility that this scheme will extend to take in 2,000 families throughout the province. The present plan is that the provincial government find the land under its land settlement scheme and the provincial federal and municipal governments each bear a third of the cost of equipping the families to take up their farm duties.

It is understood that each family will be given stock and equipment up to a value of $300, that suitable land will be found for them, buildings erected from timber drawn from land or adjacent territory and that the farms will be under the supervision of an inspector of the natural resources department. The scheme is understood to have been advanced by deputations from Moose Jaw, Saskatoon and Regina, and to have been favorably received by the cabinet.

It is understood there are 500 destitute families in Regina, 400 in Saskatoon and 300 in Moose Jaw, all reported to be ready to take up farming under this scheme.

England Has Bridge Problem

Still Has Seven Thousand Too Weak For Motor Traffic

After spending $2,500,000,000 on highways in the last ten years road officials in England have found that highways, no matter how well paved, are only as strong as the weakest bridge. Nearly all the bridges in the country were built in the days of horse traffic and cannot support motor driven vehicles. More than 350 weak bridges were rebuilt or strengthened last year, but estimators say there are at least 7,000 more which are weak and dangerous.

MANY A LITTLE GIRL SIGHS FOR A BOLEERO DRESS SUCH AS DEBUTANTE SISTER WEARS

Today's model is quite the easiest thing in the world to fashion. The caped collar gives it a smart difference, and is so girlish and pretty. You'll like the rather straight tailored appearance of the skirt. Inverted plaits at the front, provide ample flare.

Deep blue sheer checked woolen made the skirt and bolero jacket. Then there's the delicious wash of fresh linen in orange-red shade. The tie of crepe de chine tones with the blue.

Or perhaps you don't care about woolen? You prefer daughter in wash frocks. Why then the entire dress may be made of linen in lovely new pink shade with white or in French blue with white.

Style No. 857 is designed for sizes 6, 8, 10 and 12 years. Size 8 requires 1 1/2 yards of 39-inch material for bolero and skirt with 3/4 yard of 39-inch material for waist.

Price of pattern 25 cents in stamps or coin (coin is preferred). Wrap coin carefully.

Members Of British House Of Lords Are Sturdy Patriots

The Prince of Wales has unveiled a Memorial in the Royal Gallery of the House of Lords to 245 peers who lost their lives in the World War.

These figures are startling. They represent fully one-third of the total membership. Just think what one community would have sacrificed were 245 out of 740 male members of the population to be killed or die of wounds.

Prior to the war the Lords were in disfavor with a large section of the British people. Mr. Lloyd George had worked up a terrific agitation against them. He virtually pictured them as a lot of blood-suckers living on the people and grinding the masses down in poverty.

But in fact the peers were, and are, about the sturdiest patriots in the British constitution. By their hereditary rights of rulership, public service is one of the first things that come to their minds. They send officers to the army and the navy. There is scarcely any other occupation for a peer's son. They enter the services as a matter of course. And when the time comes the officers are right in the thick of things.

Much of Britain's finest blood, peers and the sons of peers, the latter running into thousands, is spilled in defense of Britain whenever and wherever the army or navy are engaged.—St. Thomas Times-Journal.

London Papers Pleased

Acclaim Choice Of British Delegates To Imperial Conference

Choice of British delegates to the Imperial Economic Conference at Ottawa next July has been acclaimed by London newspapers.

The Morning Post said the personnel illustrates the importance "rightly attached to a great opportunity." The Post, referring to the Irish Free State, asked if the change in the British policy might not be too late. "One part of the British Empire has broken away from the British customs union," it said, "and its elected representatives demand nothing less than complete separation. The present government in South Africa is leaning in the same direction as southern Ireland."

The Daily Telegraph said "the best and strongest team of British ministers has been selected. Subject to obvious limitations imposed by parliamentary and departmental duties." The Telegraph's political correspondent said: "It was intended Sir John Gilmour, Minister of Agriculture, should join the Ottawa delegation, but, in view of the fact the wheat bill will be coming into operation in the next few months and other questions affecting agriculture are likely to claim his attention soon, a positive statement that he would be present at Ottawa could not be made."

Knowledge Necessary

If Conference Succeeds

No Headway On Reparations If U.S. Remains Ignorant

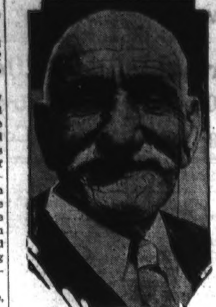

If, when the European powers repair to the Lausanne Conference in June, the American people retain their present degree of ignorance about the significance of the debts and reparations mess, the chances that that conference will make headway toward a sensible solution of the difficulty, none too bright at best, will be slight indeed. It is impossible for the European participants to proceed more than a step or two toward reasonable adjustment without banging into the fact that the United States holds a controlling stake. And if the American people remain ignorant of the business, the chances of an intelligent response to European proposals will be decidedly poor.—Baltimore Sun.

The Cutworm Threat

Warning Issued To Avoid Potential Losses From Pest This Year

With a view to enabling farmers in Saskatchewan and Alberta to avoid or reduce potential losses from cutworm damage this year, Arthur Gibson, Dominion entomologist, has issued a special notice in which particular attention is called to the fact that in these areas in which severe losses on account of damage by the pale western cutworm were caused in 1931 even greater losses may be expected in 1932, providing weather conditions are average, and that even a very wet spring will only partially check the immediate ravages.

Any fields which were undisturbed so that the soil surface was calked or crusted from August 1 to September 15 in 1931, should be reasonably free from cutworms this year, and reseeded fields which were cut after September 15 in 1931, should be considered as safe if undisturbed during August.

In any case where there is doubt as to a field being free of cutworms a test should be made seeding an indicator strip of wheat diagonally across the field. This indicator strip should be seeded as early as it is possible to get a drill on the land and long before regular seeding starts. One strip wide is sufficient, and such a diagonal strip will give a fair example of the condition of the field, as weather conditions which will bring this grain to a height of about five inches will also hatch many of the eggs.

If on examination from 10 to 15 plants per square yard show injury the field should not be seeded. Under normal conditions this strip will show whether or not cutworms are present by the end of the first week of May, or earlier, and seeding operations should be governed accordingly. No field should be seeded to any crop, especially fax, where cutworm damage is evident so long as there are cutworms present and active.

Detailed information as to the cutworm situation and its control can be secured by writing to the Dominion entomological laboratories at Trebbach, Manitoba, Indian Head and Assiniboia in Saskatchewan; Lethbridge or Morris in Alberta, or to the provincial departments of Agriculture at Regina or Edmonton.

A SOLDIER-PRESIDENT ON PARADE

Attired in the full dress uniform of his rank as Field Marshal, President von Hindenburg of Germany recalls the war days of 1914-18 when he was leading his country in the most disastrous war in history. The 84-year-old soldier-President is shown as he reviewed the Guards Regiment of Berlin on the Moabit Field. Next to von Hindenburg is Oberst von Tiedemann, commander of the regiment, while at the extreme left is General von Hammerstein, Commander-in-Chief of the German Army.

Wheat Not Included

In Germany's Super Tariff Against Goods From Canada

The Reichsanzeiger, official gazette of the German Government, publishes a decree authorizing the finance minister to impose the so-called super-tariff against goods from Canada, increasing existing duties 100 per cent, as from April 1.

Goods specifically mentioned in the decree were: Fresh, dried and tinned fruits, fish, lobsters, oysters, turtles, flour, butter, paper, cardboard, aluminum, shoes, certain kinds of machinery. Canadian wheat was not included in the list.

The decree provided that the duties can be suspended for six months, providing Canada at once enters into negotiations with Germany for the conclusion of a commercial treaty.

Germany is one of the few countries in central Europe with which Canada has never concluded a commercial treaty. Canada has had commercial treaties with France, Belgium, Holland, Spain, Czechoslovakia, Finland, Hungary, Estonia, the Serb, Croat and Slovene Kingdom, Roumania and Lithuania.

Canadian Humor

Type By Itself and Is Essentially Good-Natured

Canadian humor as a type differs from American and English alike, writes Lionel Stevenson in "Appraisals of Canadian Literature." There is not the characteristic exaggeration of the one, nor the characteristic restraint of the other. There is a closest affinity, perhaps, with the Scottish type, as exemplified by Barrie, with his whimsicality and sympathetic indulgence, but the Canadian style is more downright, and deals more with action, less with character. It is a hearty sense of fun, arising from genuine joy of life, including an eye for the absurd which is latent in the commonplace. It is essentially good-natured. Steering a perilous course between crudity and sentimentality, it usually contrives to avoid both, by sheer force of simple, sunny cheerfulness.

Beans Make Good Crop

Interest In Growing Beans In Western Canada Is Increasing

The Dominion Experimental Station at Lethbridge, Alberta, reports a decided increase in interest in the growing of field beans in western Canada, particularly in irrigated areas. Heretofore practically all the beans used in cities and towns of western Canada have been imported from Japan, the United States and Eastern Canada. A point like Lethbridge, for example, uses about 10,000,000 pounds of beans annually. Beans require a long season to mature and have been imported recently early to ensure against loss from late frosts. The small white varieties are best suited to market demand, and it is also pointed out that too rich land, too heavy irrigating, too thin seeding, and too wide spacing of rows all tend to prolong the period of growth.

Color Attracts Butterflies

Tests Show Green Was Not At All Popular

It is the color, and not the odor, of flowers that attracts butterflies, says Popular Mechanics Magazine. This was proved in tests in Germany where paper flowers were scattered in a garden with blooming ones. It was found that the insects settled indiscriminately on both kinds to seek food. The experiment further revealed that different species displayed preferences for special colors, some yellow and blue, others blue and purple, but none of them was attracted by green.

Farming Not Drab Existence

Man Who Sticks With Win Out Says

Clarence Briner, who is 61 years of age and has been a farmer all his life, offers succinct advice to the farmer who is discouraged by the current outlook. This advice, he says, is the only advice, "Sit pat."

"The fellow who sticks will come out on top," he said. "Good times are bound to come back. They have got to come back for they can't keep on going as they have been these last two years."

Mr. Briner has 100 acres of land near Kinsville, Ontario.

His lifetime as a tiller of the soil has taught him the wisdom of diversified farming. If a man has a large acreage, he must by all means have a variety of crop so that if one fails, another will come through.

Live stock today is practically the only thing worth anything on the farm," he commented. "You can't raise money on land."

"My idea for the farmer is the happy medium," he remarked. "If you miss on one thing you hit it on another."

Farming is no drab existence if you look at it properly, he said. In fact, the good farmer is one of the most adventurous of men. Each year he takes tremendous gambles with weather, growing conditions, markets.

There is no prospect of farm produce prices going up "where it ought to be," he opined. And agrarians need not expect to get back to the old prices for at least two years.

"The only thing for us is to stand pat. We can't all quit. The fellow who will get over these bad times is going to make a good thing of it."

The Chick Supply

Should Have 100 Laying Pullets To Be In The Poultry Business

There are three principal ways by which poultry flocks are maintained from year to year. These are: the setting hen, the farm incubator, and the hatchery. The most satisfactory source of chick supply is the hatchery because of the fact that the whole problem of brooding, rearing and production, being on a highly uniform basis, is simplified.

A farmer is not really in the poultry business until he has at least 100 laying pullets. A flock of at least this size makes it possible for him, particularly if located near a large market, to sell his eggs direct to the retailer, getting the benefit of higher prices than possible when eggs are sold through the usual trade channels.

To ensure a pullet flock of 100 birds in the fall it is necessary to start with 250 chicks. Where chicks are purchased from the dealer hatchery or the commercial hatchery any desired number can be started at a given time, and the problem of management, brooding, rearing and feeding is simplified. What is more important, the pullets in the flock mature at the same age and go into the laying house in a condition suited to high production.

Ancient Clay Tablets

Interesting Letters To Egyptian Pharaoh Discovered By Archaeologist

What are believed to be letters to the Egyptian Pharaoh from cities of Palestine, imploring military aid to help stem the invasion of the Israelites of the Exodus, have been found near Tel El Amarna, Egypt, according to a statement by Sir Charles Marston, noted biblical archaeologist. Sir Charles' expedition, under Prof. Garstang, is now exploring the site of ancient Jericho.

The letters, written on clay tablets, appeal to the Pharaoh, as Suzzert, to send soldiers and chariots to defend Palestine against invading warriors, described as "Habiru," and who, Sir Charles said he believed, could be identified as Hebrews.

The letters bear a date which, he said, coincides with the period of the Israelites conquest of Palestine. They apparently were sent either to Amenhotep, the Pharaoh of the Exodus, or his immediate successors.

The fact that they were found at Tel El Amarna shows they reached their destination, he said, but searches for corresponding tablets or replies at Jericho turned up none thus far.

Some Filler

A woman entered a London office with an advertisement to be put in the wanted advertisement columns for a cook.

"I think this will go in three lines," she told the clerk.

The clerk carefully counted each word.

"In afraid not, madam," he said. "We shall have to put this in four lines, unless you like to cut it down a little, or fill out the whole four lines with four more words."

The woman nodded: "Just add, Policeman stationed opposite corner," she said.

Bargain rates are forecast for winter use of the Canadian Pacific Railway, said C. B. Foster, passenger traffic manager of the railway, on his recent arrival in Winnipeg after an official visit to the Pacific Coast.

The successful experiment in popular low rates excursions in Eastern Canada this year has invited consideration of extension of the project to the West, he added.

In continuance of its policy of inter-city visits between the major centres of population in Eastern Canada, the Canadian Pacific Railway will on April 8 operate one of the most ambitious of its projects by running a round trip excursion from Toronto to Montreal at a reduced one-fourth of that of the ordinary return fare. There is every indication of heavy participation in the excursion.
